

Dear FCC, Please deny the attempts by the Commercial Bankers Association to weaken or overturn Indiana's No Call legislation. This bill was enacted to protect our homes from the invasion of privacy by telemarketers, and even excludes worthwhile charitable organizations from calling our homes, unless a prior relationship existed.

The harassment of our citizens was so intense, that this law was needed to protect folks from predatory telemarketers, and all of us who registered our numbers on the No Call list, did so to end the annoyance of people like these bankers.

If our laws can be circumvented by powerful groups like the CBA, then equality will demand that every scam artist and hustler will resume the harassment that engendered our No Call List in the first place.

Please consider the wishes of ordinary citizens like myself, People who can't employ powerful lobbyists to force their wills upon government agencies such as the F.C.C.

Respectfully Submitted, Herman G. Morgan III
